

About Us

LazosLearning Association is a non-profit organization registered in Ontario, Canada, whose goal is to make available, to a global audience, effective educational materials designed to enhance processes of social and economic development. The Association collaborates with experienced institutions that have created materials which have been successfully employed in the field of development, and works to bring these to increasingly wider audiences by coordinating their online and deployment. In a broad sense, the Association is concerned with the promotion of learning that focuses on efforts to advance spiritual and material civilization.

In its efforts to promote learning through the diffusion of proven materials, LazosLearning is also concerned with developing approaches and methods related to the deployment of such content to global participants on a large scale, especially using electronic media. Specifically, the Association is striving to learn how to assist groups of individuals in different locations and with different backgrounds and experiences to study together online, while maintaining critical elements of reflection, discussion, and thought about application of concepts in action that characterize the in-person study of the same materials.
